About Allegiance Coal

Allegiance Coal is a publicly listed (ASX:AHQ) Australian company based in Vancouver, BC Canada, and is focussed on developing and mining metallurgical coal projects in North America and Western Canada. The Company is developing the Tenas metallurgical coal project, located in northwest British Columbia, in partnership with Itochu Corporation. The Tenas Project has a completed definitive feasibility study and is now in the permitting process targeting H2 2022 for the commencement of production. In October 2020, the Company completed the acquisition of the New Elk hard coking coal mine, a fully permitted and constructed mine located in southeast Colorado, US. The Company is scheduling to return the New Elk mine to production in mid-2021.
