Drilling Completed at Connemarra

Allegiance Coal Limited (ASX: AHQ) has completed drilling a single stratigraphic hole at its Connemarra Project (EPC 1296) located 20km west of Springsure in the Bowen Basin.

The hole, originally planned to an expected depth of 450-550m, was deepened to a final depth of 621m to maximize data collection. While no coal was noted in any of the drill cuttings the geophysical log identified two minor coal bands having no economic importance. The information collected from this hole by way of geophysical logging as well as drill cuttings is enabling a better understanding of the geological setting within EPC 1296.

The company is planning no further drilling at EPC 1296 at this stage.
